☞ At the special election yesterday in the 4th Ward, George Wellington was chosen Alderman. There is a vacancy in that Ward to be filled, and the election takes place to-day from 9 o'clock A. M.

There has been some anxiety felt here for a few days on account of an error in the news giving the name of some other person than Capt. James Chick of this city, as commander of the Oxnard.

Notice by a letter published in the Philadelphia North American that Capt Chick, is not of the Oxnard and that his vessel was in company with the Russell Glover, from Brazos, and they had a pleasant pass and of some miscalculation on the part of Russell Glover, Capt. Chick arrived at days ahead

He thus describes the spot:

"Island of Lobos is a lovely little spot, only of coral, about two miles in circumference, twelve miles from the Mexican coast, sixty miles from Tampico, and Vera Cruz. It is covered over with the highest of the former perhaps and these are so thickly covered that one can hardly get through. There is hardly a tree, or shrub or plant, I have ever before seen in Bullyan, growing over large spaces of ground forming props as they pierce into take root, while the tops thickly evergreen vines, form a most beautiful Lemon, lime, fig, palm, cane, and other species of wood, are growing in richness and beauty of the Indies; had fine punch made of the limes as well as lemonade made of them, which do not seem to there is plenty of water to be had to six feet of this brackish and are getting used to it, and like it as ship water. We received the first number of The Knickerbocker and Lady's and Gentleman's Magazine, a popular monthly publication, Jones, and Davis, Philadelphia, at twenty five cents a year. The work is good. It will aim primarily to cause of temperance, and also aim to public taste in literary matters by intidote for the pernicious poison which ide through cheap and impure publ found in the literary market.

With the elevated tone of this aking it as an earnest of future num- ecommend its general circulation.

A bill to authorize the loan of two Na- ns to France, puts the brandi deep upon him worthy of trust. His political friends have on their emphatic verdict of, the character of a defamer. A righteous verdict.

☞ The handsomest hog brought to our market this winter, was one from the farm of George W. Cumberlain, Esq., of Carmel. The hog was fifteen months old, weighed five hundred and thirty-seven pounds, and brought between forty-six and forty-seven dollars. It was purchased on Tuesday by Messrs. McLaughlin & Rice, in the Market House.

☞ The Young People's Magazine, published in New York, by John L. Holmes, commenced the the first number of the second volume in January. It is an attractive Magazine, and is prettily illustrated.

☞ The steamboat New Orleans was to sail from New Orleans for Brazos on the 16th, with 500 horses, and Government stores. She is chartered by Government at the moderate rate of $11,000 a month!

☞ It is stated that Hon Hannibal Hamlin, Representative to Congress, from this district, lost his trunk on his way home and with it nine hundred dollars.

☞ It seems that the President pocketed the River and Harbor bill and thus the second time killed that measure of so much importance to the great and growing West

☞ Queen Victoria's income is $6666 per day Sunday included, or $277,75 a second. A snug income truly.

Early Impressions.

Impressions received in early youth are the most deeply engraven upon our minds. Change of circumstances or of clime can ne'er erase them.

Should we be called to leave the home of our early childhood and wander in foreign parts in pursuit of the pleasures, the honors, and the riches of life: learn different tongues, form different associations, adopt different postures, partake of different elements, and live under different governments, yet they remain. Should reason even desert her empire, these will not, but her reflection will escape from our lips, though in a different language.

They cling till life's last hour.

Those early associations which we formed, when in "Eden simplicity," serve like the polar star to the mariner, to take our observations from through all subsequent life.

Who that has the feelings of a man and has sat around the family fireside with parents, with brothers and sisters and partaken of their pleasures, their joys and their sorrows, and resound the scenes of the past, and plans for the future, and anticipated their happy results, though it be now whitened o'er with age, and say that he has forgotten them?

We well remember the impressions received in the rambles with our early companions through the orchards and among the pleasant groves through the fields in quest of sparrows' nests, of the ill-contrived snares of the bumble-bee, or to attack the dwelling of the hornet, or along the margin of the rivulet to angle for the speckled trout, or the fair to through the wood to secure the partridge, or trap the cunning fox or the crow; or with the "ox-trap" with choice morsel upon its fastening to entice the jay or blue-jay within its enclosure, and had fine punch made of the limes as well as lemonade made of them, which do not seem to there is plenty of water to be had to six feet of this brackish and are getting used to it, and like it as ship water. Fish and sea fowl in profusion. With these we have, for, that fourteen hours out of the makes the place delightfully pleas-

Again the impressions received at the old school house, (hallowed spot,) now many associations are connected with it. These are not forgotten, but are so firmly engraved upon the tablet of our memories, that though others of more importance may rest upon them, yet, they can never displace them. But the impression is of childhood free from all of a joyful and blessing cast—for otherwise.

The cruel spoiler, Death, steps into the social circle and snatches a member away. Does childhood forget these impressions? Ah, no! Perhaps she is a brother or sister, or far more painful, a mother. I have passed through the trial. I was but a child—some four years of age—but no too young to forget it. Ah, in what vivid colors is that scene, painted upon my mind which I stood by her bed-side—death had marked her for its victim, but I was unconscious of it—Her spirit departed—I grieved upon her lifeless form—the sad truth burst upon my mind —I was an orphan—I was told that I should meet her again. Think you I have forgotten it? No! Though more than thirty years have passed away, it seems but as yesterday.

What youth wish to have the early impressions of youth buried in oblivion because some are painful? I would not—I dote to contemplate upon them. There are bright spots upon the disc which would not have obscured for worlds or fame. They are way marks in the journey of life, which I love to look upon, because they are old associates They give me many lessons of instruction which no other teacher can give.

They teach me that I once was a child and though I am old and acted, and loved as a child.

L.

Mr. Editor:—

Those who are familiar with Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, will perhaps recollect that when some one of his characters inquired of Mr Talkative what he, Mr T. thought the best sign of a man's good estate, that Talkative gave as the most infallible sign, "a great victory against sin." Now Talkative may, or may not, have been right in this answer; but if he was, I think we are authorized, as a community, (I mean we the good people of Bangor,) to suppose that we are in a very good and gracious state, so far as regards our standing as it relates to the cause of Temperance.

We surely have had a great victory, the past winter, against sin—the sin of rum-selling—great and colossal, from the first to the last month of the series; our richest and gration has been foaming as a roaring like Niagara's mighty flood. The French army, it is said, swore terribly in Flanders, but its unholy wrath was probably much less than the increased power of language has enabled us to shower upon the devoted heads of the piratical crew—the highwaymen of iniquity—the rum-sellers!

And now at last we have come to action. We have deeds as well as words to appeal to. We have elected a complete thorough going temperance Mayor, youthful, ardent, resolute, and have taken the field, a bristling, belligerent host, determined to carry the cause of Temperance by a coup de main, and ought not to forget that our good friends the Washingtonians, throwing recaptassion to the dogs, have evinced their zeal by aiding the general outcry, and drawing themselves to the martial band.

Now who can say that we, as a temperance people, are not in an excellent state—that we are not now, to adopt a modern phrase, "about right,"—nothing to do but go ahead?

Now, Mr Editor, let not my reader, if any there should chance to be—I say let not any one think that you have got a rum-seller's, rum-drinker's, or rum-manufacturer's in disguise, for a correspondent, if he should inquire what evidence we have that by all this movement the cause of Temperance has advanced any. The writer has in this cause too well, to be satisfied with proceeding it remain stationary, (the pomp and circumstance of glorious war) is no compensation. He cannot forget how sweetly the cause went forward as it expanded under the influence of original Washingtonian principles, and he is not yet prepared to cast them off.

I may have something more to say on this subject but I fear I have already written more than you can spare room for—so no more at present from your friends.

Confiscation of Church Property in Mexico

The spirit of opposition to the confiscation of the property of the Church, by the Clergy seems rather to increase than diminish. The following is the solemn

PROTEST

Of the Venerable Arch-bishop's Chapter, against the taking possession of the Church Property.

This Chapter having been informed from an undoubted source that the sovereign Congress have this morning approved of an act for the taking possession of the church property, without losing a moment for the preservation of those sacred rights charged upon them by the solemn canons of the church, have determined to direct to your Excellency this communication, with the object of making known that they cannot in any manner coincide with the measures entertained in the above named act; not, during to incur the ecclesiastical censures and penalties emitted at the end of the 14th chapter of the 22d session of the Sacred Council of Trent, and reiterated in the third Mexican: and in consequence they hereby enter the most solemn protest against the act now about to be nationed only expecting from the piety of the supreme government, that the aforesaid dis nstitution of the Sacred Council of Trent, which comprehends all whatever may be the dignity invested in them, and which inflict the highest punishment upon those who disregard it, may be fully respected obeying likewise the fundamental law now reigning through the republic, which guarantees the property of our ecclesiastical corporations

May it please your Excellency to make known to the most excellent Senor Vice President, that these are the sentiments entertained by this Archbishop's Chapter.

We present to your Excellency the assurance of our distinguished consideration and esteem. God guard you many years.

Awful Catastrophe—Explosion at the U. S. Arsenal at West Troy.

The Troy Post Extra, states that on Thursday morning, an explosion took place in one of the buildings at the Arsenal, in a room devoted to the manufacture of Cases and Bomb Shells, which discovered all the fine composition blew out the windows, and injured more or less nearly all the workmen in that department.

It is supposed to have been caused by a boy stepping down some of the composition which lay upon the brick floor of the room, with a foot wh chemicalized into tacks in the heel. This ignited and exploded all the composition in the room; amounting to 12 or 14 pounds. The explosion caused a loud report; damaged the building and set it on fire.

There were about twelve or fifteen persons in the room; eleven of them were severely injured, and three it is supposed cannot survive.

One man was blown through a window before which he was at work, an d they were all in a running inwardness directions, with their clothes torn off or on fire, and the flesh and hair of some of them severely burned. Some immediately plunged into the snow, not only to extinguish their burning clothes, but to allay the excruciating sufferings. Many of them are cut and mangled in a shocking manner!

The Army Appropriation Bill, as it finally passed the House of Representatives, on Tuesday last, appropriates 24,265,00 dollars for pay, subsistence and clothing of the regular army and volunteers, expenses of recruiting, transportation of troops, repairing barracks, &c. It also appropriates 7,392,57 to supply deficiencies in appropriations before made.

Fossil Remains in Sweden.

Letters from Stockholm state that there have been recently found in Sweden, human fossil remains of a colossal size. At the last sitting of the Royal Academy of Sciences at Stockholm, the Perpetual Secretary read a letter from M. Nielson professor of Zoology of the University of Lund, in which that naturalists relates the result of making researches in a turf-pit between Lund and Felster bo, near the village of Beddinger, and far from the shore of the Sound, he found various human bones of enormous length and size, and also fossil bones of animals, such as horses, reindeer, hares, goats, bears, &c., all of an extraordinary size. At the same place he found arrows and heads of lances of bone and stone. M. Nie son promises to send for the inspection of the Academy some specimens of his discoveries.

The best Pears.

A high flavored and melting pear is one of the most desirable of all fruits; and yet it is very probable with all our facilities for cultivating high delicious fruit there are thousands in Maine that have never even tasted of either of the following noted pears, although they are extensively cultivated in Massachusetts. We need one of the "enthusiasm," and we may also say enterprise, portrayed in the following highly interesting but abridged account of a pomological visit to a Gentleman (who is much of a cultivator of fruits and Editor of the Horticulturist) of the State of New York to Massachusetts taken from the December number of the Horticulturist commencing on page 277.

Every body that knows the difference between pears and peaches, will admit that Boston is the focus or centre of the pear enthusiasm. At the annual shows of the Horticultural Society there, however two and three hundred varieties of this fruit are exhibited—a larger number by one half, than are ever seen at the great fruit shows in London, Paris or Ghent. It is the ambition of every fruit grower in the circle of ten miles about Boston, to possess all the new est pears.

Every little cottage garden has a Bartlett and its Beurres; and many amateurs are annually importing from France, Belgium and England, the last novelty of the nurserymen's catalogues, at prices where guineas count as frequently as shillings.

Boston has thus the credit of first introducing to this country many fine varieties of fruit of a much earlier date than they would otherwise have reached us. This precedence she holds over New York and other cities. This is owing to the taste, wealth, enterprise, and above all the rivalry, joined to the power of union, which exists among her citizens. In Boston, the intelligence and spirit of the citizens always act combinedly, and thus effect much,—witness her Horticultural Society. In New York they always act individually, and thus effect little—except the Farmer's Club.

Now that such a vast collection of pears has been accumulated in the country, we naturally look to the Boston Cultivators, as having most thoroughly and repeatedly tested them, for some results. Every year the tables at the Horticultural Hall groan under the vast contributions of pears But the thousands of animated visitors are, besides what may be gained by feasting the eyes, not much wiser.

What are the results? What are really the best sorts? These are the questions which the planting community are now beginning eagerly to ask. They are queries, which we hope the Society in question is making preparation to answer in its future great annual shows, by labelling conspicuously, "First quality" all those varieties which the fruit committee shall decide to be worthy of that distinction.

In the mean time, it has occurred to us, that a begabbling might be made, towards some general results in pomology, by opinions gathered from various parts of the country, and laid before the readers of this journal It is only by a large contribution of facts and results, from practical men, that we can attain any thing like a generalization of our knowledge on this subject.

Such thoughts as these passing through our mind, when we rode a visit to Boston in September last, we had the curiosity to ask half a dozen of the most zealous and experienced growers of the pear in that neighborhood, to compence the experiment of results, by answering the simple question, "Which do you consider the three best pears"—Early, medium and late —supposing yourself confined to three trees?

We passed our first night under the hospitable roof of the President of the Society at Hawthorn Grove, Dorchester

Col. Wilder spoke I, that the question was difficult to answer, because it was so simple.—He had many others have been, for many years past, collecting and proving hundreds of sorts from all countries and they had been so busily employed in testing, that little had yet been done in forming a summary of their experience. He frankly confessed that in his opinion, that among the hundreds of sorts, with high sounding names, received from abroad, the really good ones could easily be counted by tens.—Col. Wilder has this year fruited over two hundred varieties of pears in his experimental grounds. He answered our question by naming the

Bin Bolt,
Vicar of Winkfield and
Beurre d'Aremberg.

Our next visit was to Johnson at Lynn. He is one of the most zealous and untiring amateurs and his trees perfectly managed. Mr Johnson's answer to our question was, the

Bartlett,
Louise Bonne de Jersey,
Beurre d'Aremberg.

The Louise Bonne de Jersey he said is the most productive upon young trees of any pear I cultivate, and I think that I could save but three, I would be forced to reduce it; yet I may alter my opinion when the trees become older. The vertical was at the Pomological Garden of the late Robert Manning now carried on by his son—the elder son, Mr S Manning's answer to our question was the

Bartlett,
Beurre Bosc,
Winter Nelis.

The Beurre Bosc, Mr Manning could not but consider, in the whole one of the best of Autumn pears. Mr Ives whose garden joins Mr Manning's and whose zeal and enthusiasm as a cultivator are well known, favored us with his three select fruits all which are these—the

Bartlett,
Fondante d'Automne—[Belle Lucrative]
Winter Nelis.

You may be assured said Mr Ives that no Autumn pear surpasses the Belle Lucrative or Fondante d'Automne whereupon he placed in our hands a fine specimen of this luscious fruit to stop our mouth and our objections at the same time! It was, indeed, we have always found this variety really delicious.

Our last pomological visit was to Mr John C Lee of Salem who has tested a great many fine pears. He kindly chose us the three best which his own experience would lead him to adopt viz: the

Bloodgood,
Seckel,
Winter Nelis.

Three more of other gentlemen, experienced fruit growers, about Boston, to whom we should have been pleased to submit our primary question, but our limited time did not allow us to visit them.

Some how, however, we think, been gained by our pomological gossip. We have at least ascertained, or our concern nine pears, whose maturity is from early summer to winter, which are esteemed by the most experienced growers of fruits in all about Boston, as the very best for that neighborhood and we may add for the whole sea coast be, of fifty miles in land extending from the Chesapeake bay to Maine

These are the Bloodgood, Bartlett, Louise Bonne de Jersey, Seckle Fondante d'Automne [or Belle Lucrative] Beurre Bosc, Vicar of Winkfield, Winter Nelis, and Beurre d'Aremberg.

The Bartlett, it will be perceived is almost an universal favorite, this is owing not simply to its size and good quality, but also to its regular productiveness, joined to its invaluable habits of its adaptation itself to every soil, and bearing while the tree is yet very young. Beurre d'Aremberg and Winter Nelis are about equally popular as winter fruits—the Beurre d'Aremberg being the best bearer, and the Winter Nelis the most luscious in flavor

Some of our readers may expect that after having successfully solicited the contributions of the leading dilettanti of Pomona around Boston we are bound to contribute something ourselves before closing the books. We shall do this very willingly, if they will allow us to give speculators call a large margin. We must beg to be allowed two answers, though we would not allow our respondents but one. For all gardens in the East and South, viz: New England and Southern States—we could recommend the

Bartlett,
Seckel,
Beurre d'Aremberg.

For all Gardens to the North of New York [Canada] and the Western States, Ohio, Indiana, &c.] the

Bartlett,
White Doyenne [St Michael's] and
Beurre d'Aremberg.

What may be considered the height of impudence?

If you give it up?

Supreme Court Adjourned----Important Decision.

Washington, March 6

The Court met a. the usual hour, this morning, and after the business, which occupied the Court for a short time, there was an adjournment to the first Monday in December, or according to law. There were six of the nine Judges upon the Bench Judges Taney, McLean, Wayne, Nelson, Woodbury and Grier.

An opinion was given upon he important license cases which were so fully argued before the Court at the present as well as the last term. The judgments of the Circuit Courts are affirmed, and the Supreme Court decides that the States have a right to regulate the trade in, and license, or the sale of ardent spirits. Thus the law in New Hampshire which controls the power over licenses generally, and the law of Massachusetts, which forbids the sale of any smaller quantity than twenty-eight gallons, and the law of Rhode Island, limiting the sale to ten gallons, are so affirmed by the Court These cases have been ably argued by counsel from each of the States, and the decision of the Court will happily put the question of power to rest; and as the long and successful legal controversy, at least, the power of the States over the retail trade in ardent spirits.

The Court today entered the cause between the Merchants' Bank of Boston and the owners of the steamboat Lexington, growing out of the shipwreck, and loss of specie, for the steamer Monday in December next

The Court also affirm an important decision of the Circuit Court of Ohio, growing out of the abolition of slaves. The case will be known as the Vansant case.

The Court also affirmed all the state laws in regard to the tax upon foreign emigrants, arriving in the ports of Massachusetts and New York. These laws are regarded as police regulations, and necessary for the preservation of the health.

The business of the Court was conducted by Judge McLean; and Judge Taney elected the crier, after a brief session, to adjourn the Court to meet again according to law.

Lieut. Ritchie and his despatches.

An army correspondent of the Evening Post, writes the following respecting the courier Gen. Scott sent to Gen. Taylor, who was lassoed and murdered on the road.

"They are as follows: Ritchie and his escort reached the encampment of General Marshall, supposed to be Col Marshall, of Kentucky,) between Camargo and Monterey.

"After delivering to the aide such orders as were intended for him, Marshall, (as report has it) demanded to see the despatches which were in possession of Ritchie, intended for General Taylor. Ritchie stated that these were confidential, at the same time courteously handing the papers to the other, who not only read them himself, but aloud in presence of his officers, and it is said, of several Mexicans who were present. These dispatches were of an important nature, containing the secret plan of operations between the two American Generals.

Shortly afterwards Ritchie resumed his journey, and riding ahead of his little escort into the plaza of a small pueblo called Tila Rica, was lassoed, dragged from his horse, instantly put to death, rifled of his despatches, and left upon the streets, with the bear's-gut from his mouth!

The despatches were immediately sent by express to Santa Anna.

If Col. Marshall has thus been guilty, he has much to answe for.

From the Philadelphia Sun.

The Inebriate's Past.

Oh speak not of the past to me—
The dark, the gloomy past—
Upon it shame and infamy
One black disgrace can cast;
There wreck'd of all I love on earth,
My dear and cherished all
Lies strewn along its hateful path
To mark my early fall.

My childhood and its sunny hours
Were fraught with purity and bliss
And, though I'm changed, still memory
Around that childhood's home—
What joyous scenes before me rise—
What thrilling memories crowd!

A mother kiss—a sister dear—
I see them kneeling there,
And fancy's ear that form can hear
Their fervent, low breathed prayer;
And 'twas for me that bids at morn
And silent, dewy even,
Their prayers went up, by angels borne,
As incense sweet, to Heaven.

But now the cold white chancel yard stone
Marks where those forms were lain;
And this my sinning soul must own,
A sadness of its shame.
In vain I've joined each career of mirth,
Of noise and revelry,
That thus the troubled hours o'earth
On wings of sport might flee

I join the dance, and sing the song,
While flows the ruby wine
And life's best hours, with earth's light throng
Devote to Bacchus' shrine.
But though I seem all thoughtlessly
To fling my hours away,
And in each scene of gayety
Am first amidst the gay,

A sweet, low voice they do not hear,
So mild, yet plaintively,
Seems ever whispering in my ear
Its once loved melody
And of a mother's form will steal
Again before my view;
And there the same whiteness to kneel—
She once was wont to do.

O, were her prayers all breath'd in vain.
Though all so faithfully;
That heaven may yet her son reclaim,
Oh shall it never be?
But of blest boyhood's scenes gone by,
With pleasure none I see,
For each that meets my languid eye
Reproachful speaks to me.

How shall I, then, with pleasure cast
My thoughts on former days
How on that dark and sinful past,
In fondness ever gaze.
Since all that once was fair and bright
Across life's beamy path,
Hath faded into cheerless night,
I seek for only death.

FOSTER'S MOUNTAIN COMPOUND

seems to be the only article for the Hair in which the public has placed implicit confidence. Its "power it to exhibit" and peculiar efficacy in the remodeling of the hair, aside from its virtues in giving richness and a lasting moisture, longer than any thing else can, give it a precedence with both ladies and gentlemen, over every other article heretofore invented for the toilet.

Nothing like it in appearance or composition. It is adapted pathologically to the cure of all diseases of the hair and skin. An ebony with an illustrative drawing, showing the structure of the skin and hair, with directions, is enclosed with each bottle Sold by Messrs. A. P Guild and Geo. W. Ladd, (Druggists,) only agents

DR DAVIS'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF WILD CHERRY and TAR,

FOR the cure of Consumption Coughs Colds Asthma Influenza, Bronchitis Pleurisy Difficulty of Breathing Pain in the Breast or Side Spitting of Blood, Croup Hooping Cough Palpitation of the Heart Nervous Fremours &c

IN introducing this medicine to the public we deem it proper to state for the information of those at a distance that it is the preparation of a regular graduate of the University of Pennsylvania a physician of twenty years practice To show the standing of Dr Davis and the character of his medicine we offer the following editorial notices from newspapers of Philadelphia—

From the American Sentinel, Dec 16, 1845

In our advertising columns will be found a notice of Dr Davis's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar In Dr W we recognise a respectable physician of this city and we have had it recommended to us and shall publish from respectable citizens, the most satisfactory evidence of the extraordinary virtues of his medicine

From the Spirit of the Times Dec 15 1845,

We ask attention to the advertisement of Dr Davis's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar Dr D is a respectable physician of this city of many years practice and his medicine is supported by most simple and satisfactory testimonials—Among the certifiers we observe the names of a number of well known and respectable citizens

From the Christian Repository Dec 19, 1845

We next turn into her column an advertisement of Messrs Johnson & Collins of this city to which we take pleasure in calling the attention of our readers We do this more especially from the card of Bro Haines which is appended to it Bro H is a member in full of the M E Church in good standing and those who know him personally, we believe the fullest confidence in any statement he may give of the efficacy of any medicine which he may have tested

From the Philadelphia Keystone, Nov 20 1845

A Valuable Medicine—On Monday, we will commence publishing a series of testimonials in favor of a new and popular medicine for pulmonary diseases—Dr Davis's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar We are happy to say that we are personally acquainted with that respectable physician and have for a number of years been familiar with many of the certifiers whip are gentlemen of respectability, and every confidence may be placed in their statements It strikes us that a medicine under such auspices is entitled to the attention of the afflicted

From the Norwich Eagle Dec 1 1845

We refer our readers to our advertising columns for a notice of Dr Davis's Syrup of Wild Cherry and Tar for affections of the Lungs, a seasonable dealer time at the present juncture, when old Boreas is so suddenly and his rough hand upon us scattering coughs and colds about our land Other certificates will be continued from day to day We myself know that we are acquainted with Dr Davis and also with a number of the persons who testify to the good effects of the medicine and can vouch for their respectability and genuineness

The above medicine may be procured of Messrs Brown, Chapin & Whittier Nos 15 and 15 Commercial street Boston and also of Messrs HALL & YOUNG No 4 Smith's Block, Bangor, Agents for this section of the State

CONSUMPTION CURED!

DUCHAN'S HUNGARIAN BALSAM OF LIFE.

THE

GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY

For Colds, Coughs, Asthma, and other Diseases of the CHEST and LUNGS.

DR HUNGARIAN BALSAM the Great Remedy for Pictoral and Pulmonary diseases unrivalled and unsurpassed as the agreeable, and effectual curative of the complaints, now known to the civilized of trial in the United States, during been distributed from Maine to Florida to establish its pre eminent merit of the country, as the great and ONLY RELIABLE REMEDY issues of Pulmonary diseases, and the best cough curative for all the kinds of and inflammation, they can possibly be

'OF BLOOD' This frigh fulsymptom of consumption is speedily checked and in duce of Buchanis Hungarian Balsam, affected membrane, removes the ulcer and restores it ses, until organs, the and healthy condition

R THIS Spitting of Blood always a sign to Pulmonicus disease and if not counsel, will sooner or later cause person who labors Blood once, will cease unless a proper curative is immediately

'THE SIDE' This distressing symptom of arises from inflammation of the Lungs, or called the Pleu ., or from Bronchial or pu sages; In either case it is an inducement of disease. Its presence is full ing and wears away the natural strength

The cause of this symptom is out of and nothing can pass its utterance but ly and healing use of the Great Pulmonic by Dr Buchan who obtains its ingredients, and perfectly harmless in

'PLAINT' In cases of Consumption ys, more or less affected, and in the small intestines On the ternis, Tubercles are often found in narily among the Liver, which also only swelled The effect of the Balsam in diseases of the Liver, especially a mucous nature, is direct and powerful the Liver, unclouded by Consumption's

COUGH The harsh, dry, hacking cough affects old people, and invalids in close has happily affected by the Hungarian me steals and stimulates the whole breath removes all morbid mucus and other unites and animates the blood, improves power of the Liver, Spleen, and other and the digestive organs and imparts new and enmerated system

IS Bronchitis, Difficulty of Breathing, shortness expectoration, with all other caused by an affection of the mucous cell throat to the lungs, are speedily cured by the use of the ahove remedy Invent

'LES ON THE LUNGS' The Balsam is the only popular remedy by power to dissolve, remove, and cure on the Lungs Incredible as it seems stemmed we have the most abundant the evidence to sustain the assertion It is its direct and immediate effects in where there is no natural organic dis not so confident is the American A cannot its to cure the worst form of this disease that ses (he has frequently stated,) it is by numerous individuals who have been RED CURED WELL by the most dreadful ses rather than by persons affected with slighter form of disease—in order that its might be more potent the bodily sys it will not be Intercostals diseases solvents cured in the worst of cases

ORATION' Free secretion is important object to be attained in all the diseases of the Chest and Lungs which is so distressing in simple the seed to excite the cough as long as it rests in the air passages, it will accumulate in the membranes and produce coughing is an attempt to throw out the expectoration gives great relief This in the latter stages of Consumption is the cause of death

Balsam is a great Keepe to cure gives the morbid and diseased matter in the passage, changes it from a thick, glutinous substance to a thin, harmless fluid, and throws it out the easiest possible ease and comfort to the There is no better medicine in the world, a consequent quantity alone ice considered.

PASSAGE ASTHMA Simple or Spasmodic has no better remedy than the Balsam This painful and distressing disease resists almost every thing else, the all powerful influence of this great as readily as any other form of Pulmonary

OPTION' Consumption has been heretofore described as a' Shrinking of the self' Hungarian Balsam by its cleansing, strengthening and anointing power, produces, not but expansion' strengthful influence all chills, fever costiveness, bluenss of the blood, a disease, an uncertain strength, emaciation, consumptive appearance, like the poisonous death of sections morning sun This is no demonstrable fact, sustained by innumerable pt of from all parts of the country

WISE TO DAY Delay in any case of consumptive tendency, is emphatically Death ordinary treatment The Hungarian Balsam ANTIDOTE as well a CURA

THE GRAEFENBERG PILLS.

THERE ARE THREE WELL KNOWN REASONS why these Pills are the most valuable Family Medicine ever brought to bear upon the unfortunate race of man Why not this long desired result of medical science be crowned with the success that attends the sacrifice of similar valuable medicines in other things? There is no reason, for it is on the simplest principle of the simplest common sense to say that a Pill thus produced will be as pure (I can arrive at no other word) as man can make it. Take a few grains downtown to any one sick, and you will give a man of ability the history of a case in which there cannot be found the most

Graefenberg Vegetable Pills

and they are presented to the public with claims unparalleled in the whole history of medical science

If we were to enter into the history of all great inventors, it is they were not made or discovered until the arrival of what may be called providential circumstances, or rather the mariner's compass, for instance, was not invented until after the Crusades, when it was more than accidentally found out by the Venetian traveller Marco Polo. The Mariner's compass, for instance, was not invented until after the Crusades, when it was more than accidentally found out by the Venetian traveller Marco Polo.
